Recommendations for Future Improvements

In the future I plan on making this even more efficient than it is currently. I plan on eventually making it work off of sorting algorithms and work with even more parameters (such as extra notes to be hit in the chord). I also want to make the user interface look better. Because I spent so much time focusing on just getting it to work, I was unable to make the application look as beautiful as I wanted it to. I would also like to make it so the user can save and load chords they have put in before and to extend the number of chords to a whole song.
